

FIVE KILLED, NINE INJURED IN CRASH OF PLANE

ARIZONA BOARD DENIES PLEA OF MRS. WINNIE JUDD

Trunk Murderess Must Die April 21 Officials Decide

BULLETIN
Florence, Ariz., Mar. 31.—(AP)—Warden A. G. Walker said today Winnie Ruth Judd, sentenced to hang April 21 in the "trunk murder case," cut through a bar in her cell at the state prison here about three weeks ago using a saw "given her by her brother," Burton McKinnell.

Phoenix, Ariz., Mar. 31.—(AP)—Still hopeful she will be spared death on the gallows, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd pinned her last hope for life today on two possible moves, one by her attorneys and the other by the Warden of the state prison at Florence.

However, neither avenue of escape appeared likely to be available to the blonde murderess, whose date for execution was set for April 21 by Governor B. B. Moore after the Arizona Board of Pardons and Paroles denied her clemency.

Attorneys for Mrs. Judd said an appeal to the United States Supreme Court "seems to be the only possibility" to save the young woman from hanging. They commented they have not sufficient funds to carry the case before that body.

The only other move is for the Warden of the state prison to request a sanity hearing for her before a superior court jury.

"I have no idea what I will do," said Warden A. G. Walker. "I have no definite statement now to make."

The Board of Pardons and Paroles was unanimous in its decision yesterday in denying Mrs. Judd clemency.

Board's Statement
"A thorough and thoughtful consideration of all the testimony and Ruth Judd's own statements to the board," a formal brief setting forth the board's findings said, "together with a careful review of all the facts and circumstances attendant upon the tragedy, compels the board to believe that Ruth Judd shot Agnes Anne Lerol through the temple while she was in bed, the muzzle of the gun being held at or near the surface of the skin, and that Mrs. Lerol was not killed in self defense."

"The Supreme Court of the State of Arizona has held that she had a fair and impartial trial and the board knows of no reason, fact or circumstance that has been offered or disclosed before or subsequent to the trial, why it should interfere with the verdict and judgment of the courts."

Convicted Year Ago
Mrs. Judd was convicted Feb. 8, 1932, having failed to testify after entering a plea of insanity. After her conviction for the murder of Mrs. Lerol—she was never tried for the slaying of Miss Hedvig Samuelson, Mrs. Lerol's roommate—Mrs. Judd Judd said she had killed in self defense. She sought to implicate Joe Kholeran, wealthy Phoenix sportsman, in the disposition of the bodies which were dismembered and sent to Los Angeles in trunks. Halloran was cleared of all connection with the case.

"I think the board has made an awful mistake," attorneys for Mrs. Judd quoted the condemned woman as saying when she was informed of the decision in her cell at Florence.

The Rev. H. J. McKinnell, Mrs. Judd's 73-year-old retired minister-father, accepted the news calmly. "It is God's will," he said, "it is for the best."

The Governor, to prevent a hanging on Good Friday, granted Mrs. Judd an additional week of life. The last previously set execution date, April 15, also is the ninth anniversary of Mrs. Judd's marriage to her physician husband, Dr. W. C. Judd.

The execution date has been changed three times since Superior Judge Howard C. Spearman sentenced her Feb. 4, 1932.

Mrs. Lerol, an X-ray technician at Phoenix clinic, and Miss Samuelson, recovering from tuberculosis contracted in Alaska, were slain the night of Oct. 16, 1931. Miss Samuelson was a graduate of Minot, N. D. State Teachers College and had lived at White Earth, N. D., home of her parents.

In the absence of her husband from Phoenix, Mrs. Judd for a time shared an apartment with the two women, who were about her age. Mrs. Judd is nearly 29.

Fall Off Bridge Broke Boy's Skull

Charles Burklin, aged 10, 82 Logan avenue, sustained a probable fracture of the skull when he fell from the Illinois Central railroad bridge about 9:30 this morning. The boy with his brother was playing on the bridge near the north side, when in some manner he slipped and fell, his head striking against an abutment and inflicting a long gash on the right side of his head. He was rushed to the hospital, where he partially regained consciousness but was believed to be suffering from a skull fracture which was considered serious.

There are 9,000,000 people living in Australia and Polynesia combined.

ROCK RIVER ON RAMPAGE WITH A STEADY RISE

Highest Water of The Spring Season Is Recorded Here

Rock River was on its worst rampage of the spring today with a seven inch rise being recorded at the hydro plant of the I. N. U. Company in 12 hours and with this stage steadily increasing. The river was not only at its highest point of this spring but indications pointed to a greatly increased stage within the next 12 hours.

Reports received at the offices of the I. N. U. Company indicated a stage of 4.7 above normal at Rockford at 8 o'clock this morning. From 6 to 8:30 this morning the river had risen four inches at Rockford and was continuing its rise. A 14 inch rise had been noted in 12 hours in that city.

In southern Wisconsin, the Pecatonica river, which empties into Rock river and plays an important part in the stage of water at Dixon, had left its banks in many places. Water was reported standing in the streets at Darlington, and at Monroe the Pecatonica had also left its banks. These reports indicated that a serious flood stage might prevail here with the next 12 to 20 hours.

No trouble was being experienced at the I. N. U. hydro plant here up until noon today with the rapidly rising stage of flood water. The tail waters below the dam were caring for the flood stage steadily, but these were also showing a marked rise and it was expected that, with Mississippi river reports showing a high stage of water, some difficulty might be experienced locally within the next 24 hours, although no serious trouble is anticipated in Dixon and vicinity.

The rapidly rising water threatened to overflow a portion of the new parkway west of the Peoria avenue bridge this afternoon. The water had risen to within a few inches of the walk along the north river bank and reports late today indicated that a several inch rise was expected from heavy rains in southern Wisconsin which had sent smaller streams out of their banks.

IN SO. ILLINOIS
Shawneetown, Ill., March 31.—(AP)—With the Ohio river at a stage of nearly 50 feet, 15 feet above flood level, precautions were taken today to guard the levees here. Mayor W. H. Brinkley said property was safe "except in the lowlands."

Men were guarding four seep holes along the north levee and keeping them covered with sand bags. The government lifeboat, Kankakee, capable of quartering 1500 persons, stood by for any emergency.

Sheriff Halle Crunk moved the only prisoner from the county jail to the court house as a precaution. Crunk's family also moved to the court house.

THREE ZEIGLER OFFICIALS ARE FREED ON BONDS

Sheriff And The Police Join Forces To Keep Peace

Zeigler, Ill., Mar. 31.—(AP)—Franklin county officers and city officials were co-operating in enforcement of law and order in Zeigler today after reaching an agreement last night which ended a dispute that added to the strife caused by the mine union controversy.

Under the agreement, eight deputy sheriffs and eight city policemen will co-operate in maintaining order. Mayor Charles Murphy Smith will serve as temporary Chief of Police.

The dispute arose Monday night when Sheriff Browning Robinson sent twenty deputies here from Benton, establishing headquarters in the city hall, where machine guns, rifles, shotguns and ammunition were stored.

ZEIGLER OFFICERS FREED
Benton, Ill., Mar. 31.—(AP)—Three city officials of Zeigler, Ill., where threats of the Progressive Miner's Union to picket mines and call a miner's strike failed to materialize this week, were free today on bonds of $1,000 each, furnished on charges of conspiracy to commit arson.

Named in the warrants were Mayor Charles Murphy Smith; Walter Kroski, the Fire Chief; and A. B. Carr, Water Commissioner. The warrants were sworn out last night after State's Attorney M. M. Hart had investigated the burning of a Zeigler boarding house in which Ray Edmundson, a sub-district president of the rival United Mine Workers' union, lived.

Called "Dirty Frame-up" the charges as "a dirty frameup that will be answered in the courts."

On the other hand officials said that Kroski failed to respond promptly to the early morning fire alarm yesterday, and that he was without wrenches when a hose was discovered to be disconnected from the fire truck.

A few hours before the arrests Mayor Smith had been informed that Governor Henry Horner had refused to grant his plea that state troops be sent to Zeigler to preserve law and order.

On his trip to Springfield Smith was accompanied by Claude Percy president of the Progressive union. The result of his request was a general investigation into the situation, which has been tense since Sunday.

All three defendants provided bond and waived preliminary hearings and the trial was set for the May term of the Circuit Court.

Meanwhile, mines operated as usual in Zeigler and deputy sheriffs from the office of Sheriff Robinson continued to patrol the streets in their attempt to prevent clashes between rival union factions in what has always been a stronghold of Union miners.

Father Coughlin Goes About Duties

Detroit, Mar. 31.—(AP)—The Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin went about his church duties as usual today while police sought the person who set off a black-powder bomb in his Royal Oak home, near his Shrine of the Little Flower, early yesterday.

Father Coughlin, explaining that he considered the explosion an attempt at intimidation rather than on his life, spent last night at home. Royal Oak police, however, posted a guard at the cottage.

Police said they were without significant clues.

The priest, who has been actively engaged in the controversy over Detroit's banking situation, was shaken by the blast but neither he nor others in the house was injured.

Amboy Man Accused By His Son-in-Law

Matt Ehman, residing south of Amboy, was placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Ward Miller yesterday afternoon on a warrant issued out of Justice Grover Gehart's court charging assault and battery. In default of a bond of $1,000 Ehman was sent to the county jail, the hearing having been continued until Monday.

Ehman is alleged to have struck his son-in-law Henry Schamberger with a pitchfork during an argument last Tuesday afternoon. Schamberger is said to have sustained a fracture of the right arm when he threw up both arms to ward off a blow which was aimed at his head.

Allow Beer Sales In U. S. Army Posts

Washington, Mar. 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was said today in high quarters to have decided that sale of the new 32 beer shall be allowed in Army posts and naval stores and canteens in states which allow such sales.

AGED RECLUSE FOUND SLAIN IN CORN-CRIB HOME

Robbery Motive For Brutal Killing Near Danville

Danville, Ill., Mar. 31.—(AP)—The body of Newton Edward Cozad, aged recluse residing in a made-over corn crib, five miles north of here on route 1, was found in his shack early today, the victim of a brutal murder. His head had been crushed and a blood-stained monkey wrench lay nearby. His feet and hands were bound with wire and straps, and a piece of copper wire encircled his neck.

Cozad was believed by authorities to have been the victim of men who sought hidden money. He had lived there alone for fifteen years, since his blind mother was burned to death nearby when their home was destroyed.

At the time of that fire, Cozad extracted several hundred dollars in gold and currency from the burning embers with a garden rake. He also was known to have received other money since then. An account of considerable proportions was found in a local bank, however, after the murder.

Littered articles and the condition of the body indicated that money was the object of the crime, and that it had been committed sometime Wednesday night. It was not discovered until neighbors were attracted by the lack of activity about the place and the absence of smoke from the chimney.

GREAT BRITAIN'S AMBASSADOR TO RUSSIA LEAVES

May Mean Severance Of Relations Between Nations

Moscow, March 31.—(AP)—British Ambassador Sir Esmond Ovey was crossing the Russian border today on a trip to London from which he may never return, at least in his present official capacity.

He is to report to the British government on the arrest of six British subjects here on charges of sabotage in connection with their work on electrical projects. It was said on high authority that it is very likely Sir Esmond is leaving for good.

(British newspapers were speculating on the possibility of a ban on Russian imports, cancellation of trade treaty negotiations already suspended, severance of diplomatic relations with Russia.)

The Russian Foreign Office was not represented when virtually the entire Moscow diplomatic corps gathered at the station last night to bid Sir Esmond and his family farewell. As the train pulled out all present lifted their hat in a silent gesture.

At least two of the British prisoners here are to go on trial April 9 or 10 facing an extreme penalty of death. The two are W. H. McDonald and a technician named Gregory.

Roosevelt Takes Farm Bill Action

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today took into his own hands the administration farm bill, summoning to a conference the members of the Senate Agriculture committee after they had failed to agree among themselves on what to do with the bill.

The Senators had voted to have Chairman Smith (D., S. C.) call on the President and ask him if he would approve some changes made by the committee in the administration bill, but when efforts were made to make the appointment for Smith, Mr. Roosevelt sent back word he would like to have the whole committee come to the White House this afternoon.

Already opponents of the bill on the committee have admitted privately that they did not have the strength to rewrite it thoroughly, as they wished, but there remained a number of changes which had been voted into the measure.

Reforestation Act Is Made Law Today

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today made his first conservation-employment program law by signing the bill, while his aides rushed to make ready for enlisting thousands from the cities' jobless for the work.

He directed the Department of Labor to supervise enrollment of the idle, making plain that he had in mind selection of men who went to the metropolitan centers during the boom days now to carry out the task of putting the many watersheds of the nation again in condition to produce timber and guard against floods.

This first point of his emergency relief program was authorized "yesterday by Congress. At the request of some of those who sponsored the legislation he deferred signing of the bill until today."

Over Score Killed By Tornado Which Swept Three Southern States

No Accurate Estimate Of Number Injured Is Possible

(By The Associated Press)

Twenty-two persons were known today to have been killed by tornadoes which dipped down into sections of three states late yesterday, causing unestimated damage to property, injuring dozens and leaving narrow but well-defined paths.

Without warning, the first twister struck Lindale, a small community north of Tyler, Tex., killing two Negroes, demolishing four garages and leveling trees and telephone poles.

A tornado next struck Mabank, Tex., to the west, destroying homes and causing other damage. The sewing machine of one family was found a mile and a half away from the house. Chickens were picked clean. Considerable loss was anticipated from the nearby heavily-timbered areas. A heavy rainfall accompanied the storm.

Shelbyville, San Augustine and Huntington, in extreme east Texas, then felt the tornadoes. At least 14 persons were killed in those communities and many more were injured. Six more deaths were reported from Hall Summit in northwestern Louisiana, and at Mount Holly, Ark.

The death toll by communities was: Huntington 5, Lindale 2, Shelbyville 5, San Augustine 4, Hall Summit 5, and Mount Holly 1.

No accurate estimate of the number injured could be made but reports over crippled communication channels in the storm area indicated more than 100 were hurt. No large cities were struck.

A revised list of dead:

TEXAS
Huntington
George Knight, 50.
Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Woodrum.

Mrs. Alonzo, Linton, 50.
R. E. Welch, 14.
Mrs. Oscar Roebuck, 21.

Lindale
Lorell Shaw, 15, Negroess.
Luelly Wimberley, 70, Negroess.

Shelbyville Center
Mrs. Jessie Vale, 30, expectant mother.
Ed Passmore, 89.
Miss Graves, 20.
Unidentified white man.
Unidentified Negro.

San Augustine
Ferris Andrews, tenant farmer.
Mrs. Andrews.
Andrews child.
Mrs. Polly Sanford.

LOUISIANA
All at Hall Summit
Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones.
Two Jones children.
Mrs. Jones' sister-in-law.

ARKANSAS
Mrs. Foyd Boyett, near Mount Holly.

Desolate communities and wrecked homes marked the zig-zag path of the storm which swept out of the southwest striking first at Lindale, Smith county, on the edge of the east Texas oil field, where two persons were killed.

In swift succession the same storm or a series of related disturbances, wreaked havoc at Mabank, San Augustine, Shelbyville and Huntington in Texas, then streaked across northwestern Louisiana, striking at Mount Holly, in the El Dorado vicinity.

Members of a Texas highway engineering crew saw the storm approaching a farming settlement 12 miles south of Center between Shelbyville and San Augustine. They said it came from the south, "out of nowhere" and missed their automobile by only a few hundred feet, tearing up trees and scattering houses like straw before it. It tore a strip about a half mile wide and three miles long, collapsing houses before the occupants knew the storm was upon them.

No report was received from Tennessee Wade, a Negro community near San Augustine, and it was feared damage there was severe.

Circuit Court To Have Light Term

The April term of the Lee county Circuit Court promises to be one of the lightest in years, with an unusually small docket of cases listed. Today was the last day of service and the total number of cases filed was less than 50. The April term will convene Monday April 10, with Judge Harry Edwards presiding.

Two new suits were instituted yesterday afternoon. John Bachman and Ada Kline filed an appeal directed against Paul Charters, administrator of the estate of Mary Schaefer, deceased.

The Wilbur Lumber Company, a corporation, of this city filed a foreclosure mechanic's lien suit against Leah Hayden, Barlow Hayden, the Phillips Petroleum Company, a corporation, George F. Prescott and Walter L. Cromwell.

COLLECTION OF SALES TAX TO BEGIN SATURDAY

Mechants Advised To Collect Tax And Impound It

The members of the Dixon Loyalty League will meet this evening at 7:30 at the city hall to further consider the sales tax law which becomes effective tomorrow, April 1. President Charles E. Miller stated today that a detailed plan would be submitted at this meeting with a view of uniformity among all of the retail merchants of the city. Under the proposed plan, the tax will be paid by patrons of stores and an accounting of all collections of the sales tax will be kept with a view of refunding in the event the injunction proceedings are upheld. Every retail merchant in Dixon has been urged to attend this evening's important meeting.

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—(AP)—Collection of the sales tax will proceed without any delay, Gov. Horner announced today in a statement in which he said arrangements were progressing satisfactorily for administration of the tax and for resisting in court the injunction filed against it.

Attorney General Otto Kerne, conferred today with opponents of the tax in an effort to take an early appeal to the State Supreme Court from the injunction order against the law.

The administration's plan is to have Judge Jesse R. Brown of Madison county act within a few days to make permanent the injunction he granted at Edwardsville Wednesday night.

Then by a direct appeal the status of the levy on retail sales would be placed before the April 15 term of the Supreme Court.

Joseph J. Rice, State Director of Finance, was in Chicago today. There was no further information from his office regarding the sales tax collection of which was scheduled for tomorrow under an emergency law sponsored by Governor Horner.

Kerne and Rice yesterday advised merchants that they should collect the sales tax, beginning tomorrow, and impound the receipts until the question is finally settled.

In a brief statement Governor Horner appealed to patriotic citizens to pay the tax, assuring them that if the court found legal objections against it that could not be surmounted "every cent collected by the state will be returned to those who have made their payments."

MERCHANTS READY
Chicago, March 31.—(AP)—Merchants throughout Illinois were reported setting up the machinery today for collection of the disputed three per cent state sales tax, the legality of which has been taken to the courts.

Retailers generally said they would begin collecting the tax tomorrow, having been advised to do so by Attorney General Otto Kerne and other state officials.

Pending a test of the law in the higher courts, Kerne informed the merchants that they should collect the tax and retain the funds. If the law is upheld the money would be turned over to the state; if not it would be returned to the payees.

To provide for the possibility of returning the tax to the purchasers, many merchants announced they would give receipts on all good sold. Customers then could use the receipts to obtain return of the tax if the law were thrown out.

Any excess collections by retailers would come from sales of less than $1. It was explained.

A three cent tax collected on a 70 cent sale, for instance, would be more than 3 per cent, as would be a two cent tax on a 34 cent sale. This excess would be made up partly by excusing sales of 10 cents or less from taxation.

Any margin left over after the merchant paid his straight 3 per cent on gross sales would go for unemployment relief.

Conciliators Will Tackle Farm Loans

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—(AP)—A state-wide voluntary organization of conciliators to negotiate agreements between debtors and creditors was outlined by Governor Henry Horner today.

Announcing his plan, which calls for his appointment of the state wide committee of conciliators within a few days, the Governor said he hoped the plan would further ease the farm and home mortgage foreclosure situation in Illinois, machinery will be provided, to give new life and impetus to his recent appeal for forbearance on the part of mortgage holders.

Barrett Allows 8 Bank Openings

Chicago, March 31.—(AP)—Eight bank reopenings were authorized today by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. They follow: Mounds, the First State Bank of Mounds; Sherrard, Farmers' State Bank of Sherrard; Normal, the Normal State Bank; Prairie City, Bank of Prairie City; Villa Grove, Villa Grove State Bank; Camp Point, the Peoples' Bank of Camp Point; Urbana, Bussey's State Bank, and Malden, the Farmers' & Traders State Bank of Malden.

NEAR SCENE OF ROCKNE'S DEATH TWO YEARS AGO

Members Of Canadian Basketball Team Were Victims

Neodesha, Kans., March 31.—(AP)—A tri-motored private airplane carrying the Canadian Toller, the championship basketball team of Canada, crashed near here today, costing the lives of five of the occupants and seriously injuring the other nine passengers.

The ship, experiencing motor trouble, plunged to the ground on a sodden meadow a twisted mass of wreckage enroute from Tulsa, Okla. to Winnipeg, the home city of the team.

The dead:
A. H. Hakes, pilot.
H. E. Eggers, co-pilot.
Mike Shea, member of the team.
Jack H. O'Brien, Minneapolis, owner of the plane.

R. H. Bonnyne, Minneapolis, business representative of team.

Three of the injured were reported to be in a dying condition.

The injured:
Colonel A. C. Sampson, personal representative of the mayor of Winnipeg, believed dying.

George Wilson, manager of the team, believed dying.

Lauder Phillips, player, cut.

Al Silverthorne, player, broken arms and legs.

Bruce Dodds, player, internal injuries and broken bones.

High Benwarden, player, critical.

Ivan Wooley, player, badly injured.

Andy Brown, player, injuries undetermined.

Had Lost Two Games
The plane left Tulsa, Okla. at 7 A. M. where the Canadian team had lost two games of an international basketball series to the Tulsa Diamond Oilers, United States amateur champions. The series was to be continued in Winnipeg next month.

It flew low over Neodesha and crashed on a tank farm of the Sinclair Oil Company about five miles north of here at 8:35 A. M. Observers here said the big tri-motored all metal plane appeared to be experiencing motor trouble and that one wing was low.

Silverthorne, a member of the team, said he was sitting in the rear of the passenger cabin when the pilot turned his head, and over his shoulder remarked:

"I'm having trouble with the motor. I'm going to have to land. Everybody watch out."

Then he fell," Silverthorne said.

Silverthorne, although in a critical condition, was able to dictate a message to relatives in Winnipeg before he was taken into an operating room.

Rockne Anniversary
The crash came two years to the day after the tragedy near Bazaar, Kans., 100 miles away, which cost the life of Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach and seven other passengers of a commercial transport plane flying from Kansas City.

Weather conditions were clear today, unlike those when the Rockne plane was dashed to earth in a severe storm.

The nose of the plane was buried in the earth and the fuselage and wings were crumpled into a twisted mass of debris.

Fireman who rushed to the scene reported the wreckage did not catch fire.

The injured were brought to a hospital here and physicians from surrounding towns were summoned to assist in treating them.

Ira B. Lanphier Died Last Night

Ira B. Lanphier, former employee in the Dixon state highway department office, who has been a patient in the Hines Memorial hospital at Maywood for some time, passed away at that hospital at 10:05 o'clock Thursday evening.

Are In Favor of Nursery Schools

By Olive Roberts Barton

Have you read Dorothy Candlish's article on Nursery Schools?

I wondered what she would have to say because I myself have been on the fence about them. Not that I did not recognize their value,

their earnest effort, and their fine training opportunities, but because

I felt that such tiny children might be missing something their mothers could give them that group-play and specialized attention could never put over.

It seems that the author had much the same doubts. I have had about it at times. Then she changed her mind and now sides emphatically with the nurseries. I am relieved. I love to have some one else make up my mind for me.

But let me see "why" she approves of little fellows and little girls as young as a year-and-a-half spending several hours a day playing, eating and napping under these specialists and nurses trained for such work, away from their homes and their mothers.

She was prepared to find these children nervous, irritable and unhappy. The idea has been, as we know, to keep babies quiet and alone.

To her amazement she found the contrary to be true, in her investigation.

The little children were playing digging, building, hauling diminutive carts about or just sitting still,
and they were anything but fretful and quarrelsome. On the other hand she saw contented little faces free from the strain that is too often present in the baby at home.

Why? That was what she wanted to know. Of course they had good food and regular naps, with a trained nurse to keep an eye on their physical condition. But the answer was different. She decided that it was because they were let alone. Really they weren't, a watchful eye was on them every minute but without their knowledge. There was no tired, worried or nervous mother after them every second for something or other.

They had peace and an opportunity to live life as nature intended her youngest to live it. And peaceful happy children do not quarrel.

Dinner Celebrates Three Birthdays

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wiener and daughter, Marion and Doris of Aughton, entertained with a birthday anniversaries. The honored guests were Mrs. Wiener's mother, Mrs. Susan Butler of Dixon, who celebrated her 70th birthday. Mr.
Wiener's mother, Mrs. Ernest Wiener, celebrating her 65th birthday and Mrs. Boyd Butler her 40th birthday. The dainty decorations of the table were in pink and white, and three large birthday cakes with candles formed an attractive addition to the delicious dinner and supper.

The guests who enjoyed the happy day numbered over fifty which included all members of both the Wiener and Butler families. The honored guests were the recipients of some very nice gifts as reminders of the delightful event, and the best wishes of all for many more happy anniversaries.

POWDER CREPE NEW SPRING FABRIC—

New York —(AP)—Outstanding
among the new fabrics for spring is a powder crepe which is very like its name. Two colors woven togeth-

The crepey weave with its frosted finish lends this fabric a subtle smartness for spectator sports attire, or for the "occasional" dress in town.

VELVET LOOKING WORN?
BATHUB'S THE ANSWER

If your velvet garments are beginning to show that a whole winter season is behind, your friend in need is the bath-tub.

Run it full of steaming hot water and hang the garments near it enough to get the benefit of the steam but not so close that they get an actual bath.

Then rub a silk cloth over the material, stroking it the way it lies.
The stroking will restore the sheen and erase the "rubbed" spots.

GAY FAVORS BRIGHTEN ALL MEALS ON EASTER

In looking ahead, don't forget that the shops are filled with clever favors which can be purchased at low cost and which will impart a festive touch to Easter tables.

If there are children in the family, the traditional chickens, colored eggs, rabbits and baskets can be used effectively on the table for all the meals on Easter—with spring flowers, of course.

Retaining Vegetable Flavor

Many housewives use a pinch of soda to keep vegetables green in the cooking, but super-housewives use a pinch of sugar instead of soda which not only retains the vegetables' fresh color but adds to the flavor. Keeping the lid off while cooking is also a help.

Social Circle Met
At Prairieville Ch.

The Prairieville Social Circle
held an all day meeting at the Prairieville church on Wednesday, March 29th. Twenty-one members and two children were present to enjoy a delicious picnic dinner.

The business meeting followed with the usual reports. A new member was welcomed to the Circle, Mrs. Fred Friedrichs, at whose home the next meeting will be held in two weeks.

The social hour of the day was spent in playing games and in conversations.

ors Miss Edna Brown

Mrs. H. M. Price entertained with a supper and bridge, guests for two tables, Wednesday evening, honoring Miss Edna Brown of Chicago, who has been a guest at the Price home for several weeks. Miss Brown formerly lived in Dixon, being a daughter of Dr.
and Mrs. Brown. She expects to return to the city early in April.

Washerwoman Was Mother Parisian Mid-Lenten Fete

Some years ago, a statistically
Paris Prefect of Police discovered that the confetti and serpents thrown on Mi-Careme, mid-Lent Thursday, cost the city 300,000 francs to clean up. He promptly forbade the sale of the parti-colored papers and thereby killed much of the carnival spirit that this distinguished festival for generations, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"In the gay 'nineties," the bulletin continues, "the washerwomen, of blanchisseuses in each quarter of the city selected a queen from among themselves, and the queens in their turn elected a 'Queen of Queens.' This honored lady of the tub was borne on a throne to the President of the Republic who bestowed upon her a golden bracelet. Among other presents she received was one hundred dollars in gold, a dress which might serve for her wedding gown and a crown which might later be pawned or used as a parlor decoration, depending upon the vicissitudes of the queen's later years.

President Gives Wristwatch Recent celebrations have been merely processions of floats, grotesque or lovely according to the moods of their designers. The queens of queens have been beautiful—and with no background of suds. The President now presents them with wristwatches. But Parisians who can remember when this was the washerwomen's festival for which all Paris masqueraded and threw color-paper streamers, regret the loss of the gaiety.

"Mi-Careme's queen for the day is now selected from the twenty arrendissements of Paris. In addition to these queens there are many more, including queens of students, hucksters, dressmakers, and typists.

Floats Caricature Events
The number of queens has grown so great that it is now impossible for each to have a separate automobile for herself, and others for her attendants, so each queen has her car filled with the ladies in waiting. The automobiles of the queens are followed by the floats which often caricature current events. There may be, for example, the ogre of high prices, the housing problem, and the vulturefaced landlord.

"The route of the procession is equivalent to a sight seeing tour of Paris. It passes through the most interesting sections of the city: the Latin Quarter, the Place de la Concorde, the Madeleine, the Opera and Port Saint Denis. The procession stops at two places, the Elysee Palace where the President kisses the hand of the Queen of Queens and bestows a wrist watch upon her, and the Hotel de Ville where the City Fathers place her on a dias which is occasionally used for the entertainment of a visiting sovereign.

Boulevards Closed to Traffic
Mid-Lent Thursday is the only day except the French national holiday on July 14, when the Paris boulevards are closed to vehicular traffic and pedestrians struggling to get close to the festival cars.

"Celebrations for Mi-Careme are now held in Corsica, Italy, and Spain. Nice and Cannes on the French Riviera, stand out, however, as the cities where the holiday spirit of the occasion is enjoyed with pre-war zest and where the populace is not just a crowd of observers but active participants in the fun."

day, March 28, at the home of Mrs.
Raymond Brechon with Mrs. Mildred Hill as assistant hostess.
There were fifteen members and twelve guests present.

The day was spent working on a quilt for the hostess. At noon a delicious chicken dinner was enjoyed by all.

After roll call a short business meeting was held and the following program given:

America by members.
Vocal Duet—Mrs. Emma Lane

Late in the afternoon the guests departed for home after a very pleasant day.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Emma Parker and Mrs. Nettie Wells.

Anger Is Most Selfish of Emotions

"Mother, if I send Tommy out to you some day with his suitcase, will you take him in without any questions?"

"Certainly, my dear. But don't do anything dramatic. It soon loses its effect on children."

"I know, but occasionally I believe the unexpected is a good thing for them. If Tommy comes, treat him well, as you would, of course, but don't kill him with kindness."

Start him in at the school here and let him finish the term. I won't even come out to see him, but I'll write him nice long newsy letters."

"My goodness! Is it as bad as that?"

"Well, it remains to be seen. I'm tired talking."

Tommy's Temper Flares
A week or so later the telephone rang at Tommy's house and his mother answered it. Tommy had gotten into a row over a kite and had deliberately torn an expensive one belonging to a friend. Then he had knocked the boy down and departed.

"I heard about the kite affair today," said his mother. "You still think your rages entitle you to destroy other people's property?"

"Oh, so Mrs. Smith had to tattle about it," sneered Tommy. "You might know she would. That whole family makes me furious."

"You get furious to easy, son.
You enjoy it. I've told you that anger is a pleasant sensation. I know too many people who just love to be angry and fly into rages.
It is the most selfish thing on earth."

A Final "Outbreak"
Another week passed. Bob and Tommy were playing in the attic one rainy afternoon. The clothes were up there drying at one end.
Bob came down presently, went to his room and closed the door.

"What's wrong?" called his mother, but there was no answer.

Sighing, she climbed the stairs to see. All the clothes lay on the dusty floor and Tommy sat on a trunk sulking.

"What did this?"
"Oh, a rope got in my way and I just went to give a towel a little jerk and the whole business had to come down."

"A little jerk!" Every hook and nail was out. Tommy had great strength and she knew, so could see him, his face purple with passion, tearing the line out, by the socket.

These two incidents were merely the high waves of a hundred breakers in the past three weeks.

Off To The Country
"I will pack you up, Tommas," she said calmly. "You cannot live with other people and make them wretched. You will live with grandma for a while in the country. And if you make trouble there, or with the other children, your father and I will hear about it. No, no more excuses! You have had your chance."

Tommy came home after May,
the end of school in Ridge County a different boy. When he discovered that his own world would not tolerate his tantrums he learned to control them.

Rage in a small child often has natural causes. In a boy of ten or eleven it needs different handling—an ultimatum, so to speak. There was no use making a problem child out of Tommy. It was simply lack of control and his mother knew it.
Yet the same cure will not work with them all. It takes wisdom to solve the question of a hasty temper.

Ruth Owen Bryan Minister to Denmark?

Washington, March 31 —(AP)—
An officialdom with a month's experience in saying "Madame Secretary" now appears likely to have to learn another new feminine title, "Madame Minister."

Its wearer would be the statuesque Ruth Owen Bryan, former Representative from Florida, about whose close-coiffed silver head many appointment rumors have been flying.

Her visits to State Department officials, recently said to be concerned with an Assistant Secretaryship, are now definitely known to have had as their focal point the diplomatic post for which she was first mentioned — Minister to Denmark.

The appointment which seems imminent would make her first American woman diplomat to a foreign country. Washington now calls Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, "Madame Secretary."

The first-published portraits that Mrs. Owen's selection was contemplated by President Roosevelt aroused much favorable comment in the Danish press.

All Should Like And Protect Birds

I saw the first robin today, the first spring robin! Two weeks ago I saw one, the day before that dreadful blizzard. During all the bitter days and night that followed I worried about the poor brave fellow. Where would he hide to keep warm? Did he live to regret his folly, coming too soon to the northland that delights in fooling birds as well as people about the weather?

When I saw that robin I was visiting in the country. The snow was very deep after those two bitter dark days, and the sun came out glittering bright. He did not appear again, but my hosts being bird-lovers and using every means in their power to house and feed winter as well as summer birds, were rewarded by having some interesting visitors.

Two very-red-headed woodpeckers were terribly busy picking mites off the bark of a small tree not ten feet from my window. A dozen snow birds were ecstatically yallowing in the deep white powder on the terrace. Two nuthatches, who likewise had stayed all winter, were running about the trunk of an oak like two little mice —half the time upside down, as nut-hatches regard the universe as having no top or bottom, as indeed it hasn't.

I took a walk, and by the way, it was a cold one. However, I was repaid, for out of a clump of bush there drummed up a couple of dozen quail.

Deserve Protection

My host later pointed out a lot of starlings feeding in a hedge. He wanted to shoot them but I stopped him. "They are a nuisance," he declared, "and drive the other birds away—gangs of birdland
—they don't belong in America."

But to me a bird is a bird and I won't have it shot if I can help it.

Now today I see a robin in my own garden. He deserves a story —that is, all birds deserve a story.

And they deserve protection and attention. It isn't fair that we have all the pleasure of seeing and hearing them and do not help them to live. They are so appreciative of a little help and show it by using what we give them.

Bird-houses are not only cheap,
but they are easy to build! A little house with a little hole in for a wren, to keep larger marauders out. Bigger ones for other birds.

LIFE IS PLEASANT IN SMALL TOWN.

When Louis T. Stone, the newspaper writer whose freakish, Munchausen-like little "nature stories" made Winsted, Conn., famous all over the country, died the other day, it was revealed that here had been one man to whom the fame and fortune offered by the big city were no attraction whatever.

Stone, it seems, had been offered jobs frequently on metropolitan papers. But he had always refused, preferring to stick in Winsted, and remarking, "I'm just a small town man—I'd get lost down there."

In that remark there is a good deal of sound sense—sense of a kind which a good many of us never quite had the wit to appreciate.

For generations it has been the tradition in this country that the really able man is going to gravitate, sooner or later, to the city. The city can pay him more money, it can give him a wider field to work in, it can flatter his ego and fatten his bank balance at the same time; and so, year after year, ambitious young men have been drained out of the small town and dumped into the vast hopper of the metropolis—often enough, to their own bewilderment and disillusionment.

But this man wasn't fooled. He said, "I'm just a small town man"; and in that saying there was not so much modesty as a realization that life in a small town can be more satisfying and wholesome—can, in short, be more fun—than life in a big city, for the man who is geared to it.

For the small town man escapes a lot of grief. He escapes the depressing sight of those miles of identical apartment houses and "two-families" which constitute the waste lands of our great cities; he has the open country at his elbow, his life is set at a more leisurely pace, his nerves are not put under a constant strain, he has more chance for friendship, for recreation, for plain loafing if he likes.

WHAT DOES THE AVERAGE MAN READ?

What does the average man read? Attempting to answer this question The American Newspaper Publishers' Association canvassed the reading habits of a representative group.

The results indicated that men average forty-five minutes a day reading newspapers, twenty-five minutes a day on magazines and one-half of the men average less than one book a month.

In other words men spend twice as much time on magazines as on books and five times as much on newspapers. This ought to be interesting to those who advertise.

From the standpoint of culture the radio may be deplored, but in the present day of better newspapers the columns contain much that is neither trivial or ephemeral.—News, Heron Lake, Minnesota.

Last year's statistics showed that a man could commit crime with better than an even chance of not being arrested.—Dr. Walter N. Thayer, Jr., N. Y. state commissioner of correction.

In this hour of emergency we are but eager to serve the Stars and Stripes again under whatever orders our new commander-in-chief may give.—Louis A. Johnson, national commander, American Legion.

America has become a country of hard liquor drinkers. I am glad to see the return of beer and wine, which I regard as a temperance move.—Dr. Joseph J. Eller of Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

It is not necessary to debate the gravity of this agricultural emergency with the man who is getting 30 cents for wheat, or six cents for cotton, or three cents for hogs.—Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture.

I want to arise in the morning without being informed that I have an engagement. I think I am entitled to this.—Former President Herbert Hoover.

I like the Cubs to win the National League championship, and I'll take the Pirates for second place and the Cardinals for the show money.—John J. McGraw, baseball magnate.

That's all I do on this job—use common sense. I'm just an onion financier—the plain garden variety.—Secretary of the Treasury Will Woodin.

Woodrow Wilson gave his fellow man everything but himself. This fault, if fault it was, explains both his triumph and his tragedy.—John K. Winkler, biographer.

All nations are marching toward the battlefield, with the dove of peace embroidered on their banners.—David Lloyd George, Britain's war-time premier.

There is one gesture we can make—pay. In that way France could show she did not refuse but only deferred the debt payment last December . . . and at the same time prove her desire to help the Americans.—Former Premier Edouard Herriot of France.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — The new Secretary of War, George H. Dern, has ideas of his own as to how Uncle Sam's military establishment must be run, and he is handing some of the "gold braid boys" around the department a few surprises.

When he took over the job, one of the first things he did was to go visiting. Instead of having the chiefs of the many different army bureaus come to see him he went to see them.

Through those seemingly endless corridors of the state, war and navy building (there are 12 acres of floor space in it) he trudged along, stopping at the various offices and paying calls.

That was something new for a secretary to do. But he got a big kick out of it.

"They tell me," he said, "that several officers almost had heart failure when they saw me come in."

PERSHING BOSSSED HIM—

There's one visit, however, he hasn't been able to make as yet, and one that he is looking forward to. He has yet to call on General Pershing.

That call will have a particular interest for the secretary. His soldiering days began with the general. Years ago when Pershing was then only a lieutenant, Dern served under him as a cadet in the R. O. T. C. at the University of Nebraska.

Pershing was the commandant of the corps at Nebraska and Dern played second alto in the cadet band.

He still remembers those days. He was only a Nebraska farm boy then. But they still look back to him there as one of the greatest football stars the university ever developed.

He played in the position of guard and was captain of the all-victorious team that made football history in 1894. Incidentally, the manager of that team and his classmate was Arthur J. Weaver, governor of Nebraska from 1929-1931, and a third classmate was Adam McMullen, chief executive of Nebraska from 1925 to 1929.

Dern himself served eight years as governor of Utah.

STUDYING HIS JOB—

Officers at the War Department apparently like the jovial Utahian for his informality.

But at the same time they recognize in him other desirable

The Tynmites began to roar and wee Duncy cried, "We have labored for a treat and now we have it. Howdy, Mister Midget Man!"

"We thought that we were really small. Compared to you, we're not, at all. Please tell us just what makes you such a midget if you can."

Then with a twinkle in his eyes, the man said, "It's my natural size. You see, you're now in Midget Land, where tiny things exist."

"I even have a midget zoo, which I will gladly show to you. This island will be one place you will be glad you haven't missed."

"Before we start to look around I would like to know just where you are bound. Now, tell me how you got here and just what you plan to do."

"A sea-horse brought us," Windy cried. "And, gee, we had a dandy ride. We have no plans at all. What happens now is up to you."

"We simply travel here and there and seek adventure everywhere. It seems to me that Midget Land will be a thrilling sight."

"We will leave it now for you to say what we can do and we will obey. I am sure we will get along so everything will be all right."

Just then the Midget Man cried, "Hey! My donkey is full of pep today! Just see him kick. I fear that he will flop me to the hard ground."

The donkey kicked two legs in the air and gave the Tines quite a scare. The Midget Man grew dizzy as the small beast whirled around.

The next thing that the whole bunch knew, into the air the strange man flew. "Oh, catch me! Catch me!" he exclaimed. "My donkey kicked too high."

Then Scooky bravely reached right out and saved the man a spill, no doubt. This Midget Man said, "Thank you! I will repay you by and by."

(Duncy plays a trick on the donkey in the next story.)

THE GREAT GAME

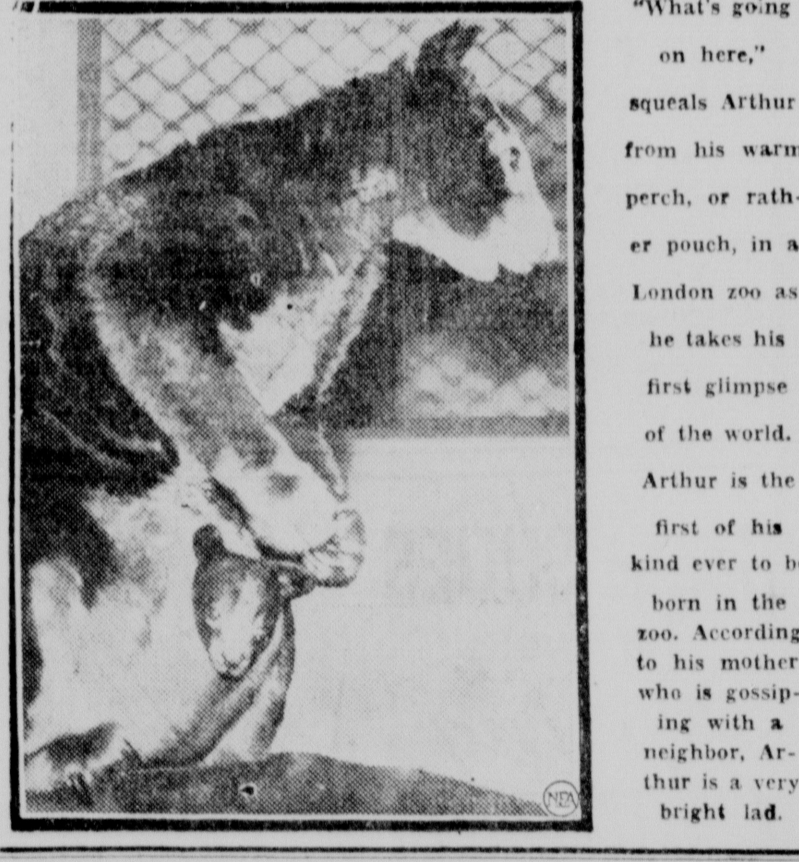

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

In the Bernard Shaw play, "Blanco Posnet," a horse has been stolen and a cowboy is arrested as the thief. The evidence is not very strong, and even in this "tough town" the Sheriff has his doubts. Still, a hanging is an exciting event, and no one wishes to miss the fun of it. They secure as a witness Peemey Evans, a kind of a camp-follower, who has no scruples about telling a lie.

At the crisis everything is upset unaccountably, as if God had taken a hand in it, leaving Blanco wondering. By accident it is learned why Blanco took the horse. A baby was very sick and its mother appealed to Blanco to help her by going for the doctor. She thought that he, rough as he was, must have in him a hidden well of human feeling. He rode for the doctor, though in order to do it he was charged with having stolen the horse on which he rode. When the fact came out everybody went soft, and Blanco is puzzled as he ponders:

"Why did I go soft? Why did the Sheriff go soft? Why did old Peemey go soft? What's the game that upsets our game? It seems to me there's two games being played. One game is a rotten game that makes me feel I'm dirt. Tother may be a silly game, but it ain't rotten. Gents, there's a rotten game and there's a great game. I played the rotten game, but the great game was played on me. And now I'm for the great game. Amen."

Yes, there are two games going on in the world, a game of low cunning and a game of high kindness. At first the low game seems

THANKS, FOLKS!

We take this means of expressing our sincere "THANK YOU" to you folks in this community and surrounding territory, for your loyal support and patronage in our Bank-Holiday Purchase Shoe Sale opening yesterday.

We took Babson at his word, and Babson was right, as usual. He said last Friday, among other things . . . "This is the time to go after business. Those companies who put every ounce of energy into strong sales and advertising campaigns will reap the quickest rewards. The need of the hour is to get goods and money circulating. Higher prices are helping. Public sentiment is revolutionized from object fear to buoyant confidence. . . . The quickest way to increase purchasing power is to speed up the circulation of money. This can be done by persuading those who can buy to do so, thus giving employment and purchasing power to those who want to buy but can't . . ."

May we add, that the prices quoted in this great selling, are in themselves "revolutionary" when you consider the fact that every pair of shoes offered are of the standard "Bowman" quality . . . the kind we unreservedly guarantee to give satisfactory service.

Tomorrow, Saturday, will be the big day! If you were unable to attend this great selling during the first two days, we are glad to announce that we have replenished our stocks from our wholesale department on those items that were completely closed out the first day of our Sale, and that you can again refer to our eight-page circular, with confidence that any items advertised therein will be on hand for you when you come in tomorrow, Saturday.

to take the tricks, but that is only seeming. It is temporary, too. In the long run the high game that seems silly, wins out—wins even the players of the cheap, hard game which seeks only to get at any cost.

For, as Emerson said, "the dice of God are loaded," and the cunning of man, which he thinks so smart, is defeated in the end. His short-sightedness is defeated by the long-mindedness of a loving kindness which knows no final defeat. For, surely, it is the love of God that will not let us win when we play dishonestly or meanly.

Daily Health Talk

ALCOHOL—II

The demand for authoritative information on alcohol seems to have increased greatly in recent years.

Most of those seeking information want a direct answer to the question: Is the use of alcohol injurious to man?

No such unequivocal answer can be given. This is brought out very forcefully in a recently published compilation of available knowledge concerning alcohol and its effects on the human body. This compilation was made under the editorship of Dr. Haven Emerson of Columbia University.

In this volume have been compiled the opinions, judgments and experiences of a number of physicians and scientists.

Few general conclusions can be drawn from the data presented. However, it may be safely said that the consensus represented in this symposium holds that alcoholic beverages used in moderation never appreciably shortened anyone's life.

On the other hand, there is also a wide agreement on the fact that the use of alcohol to excess is distinctly harmful and that there is a tendency toward the development of what is called the alcohol habit.

Alcohol is credited with distinct therapeutic uses in old age, in certain forms of infection and during periods of convalescence.

As a therapeutic agent alcoholic beverages have a place in rendering more tolerable and less distressing the disturbances of chronic disease and of old age. It is also sometimes used as a stomachic, or for the increase of appetite.

Alcohol is not considered a good preventive of colds and therefore should not be taken when one is exposed to cold. It may, however, be comforting and stimulating when coming in out of the cold.

In a general way, it would also appear from this compilation that the answer to the question of the effects of alcohol on man somewhat depends upon the nature of the man. Individuals vary widely in their susceptibility.

A BOOK A DAY

GETS IN AND HAS TO STAY
By Bruce Catton

"Light Again," by Blair Niles is a novel which indicates that it is a whole lot easier to get into a lunatic asylum than it is to get out again.

The central character of this book is a wealthy lad who is being pursued by an implacable dowager who insists that he marry her daughter . . . no, just because of his wealth and social position. Not being much of a hand at saying "no" and making it stick, the young man decides to pretend that he has gone barmy.

So he puts on his act, with the connivance of a friend, and gets himself committed to a sanitarium. This, naturally, jars the dowager unbearably, and she calls off the pursuit—but, having got into the asylum, our hero can't get out again. The friend who connived with him has got sick and been taken to Florida; and the doctors are all too familiar with patients who tell them, "Look, I'm not really crazy in the least." So in he stays.

There his adventures begin. He gets acquainted with sundry freaks; pitiable folk who hide from imaginary enemies, or feel themselves to be Napoleon, or sit about all day smoking their thumbs; and he winds up by falling smack in love with a charming patient who is perfectly normal except that she can't remember a single thing that happened to her before she was locked up.

I don't need to tell you, I hope, that the lady eventually recovers, that our hero is finally released and that they both live happily ever after?

GRADUATE FROM DIXON COLLEGE PLANS MEETING

Dr. James A. Logan To Have Part In Mil- waukee Session

A native of Capron, Illinois, Dr. James A. Logan, will have important work to do in connection with the thirty-seventh annual convention of the American Osteopathic Association to be held in Milwaukee the week of July 24. Dr. Logan is a member of the Wisconsin Convention committee which is arranging for the entertainment of those in attendance at this summer's meeting. Particularly his duties are to provide hospital facilities for clinic operations, and to make necessary arrangements for the clinics and meetings of the American Osteopathic Society of Ophthalmology and the eye, ear, nose and throat section of the American Osteopathic association. This body will meet a few days prior to the main convocation.

Dr. Logan was born, received his early education, and lived for twenty years in Capron. He is a graduate of Capron High School and of Dixon College at Dixon, Ill.

Following his graduation from the Chicago College of Osteopathy in 1925, he served the Chicago Osteopathic Hospital as interne for one year.

In 1927, he, as so many others have done, succumbed to the "call of the West." He found the answer to the call in Seattle Wash. established an office there and practiced his profession for two years, before his native mid-west lured him back. He might have returned to his old home, but he didn't. No doubt his friends would have welcomed him. Some perhaps, would have pointed with pride at the door bearing the name, James A. Logan, D. O., and boast, "I knew him when he couldn't talk."

He chose Milwaukee, however, as a place for his work and set up an office there in 1929. He has been there since.

His success as an osteopathic physician and as an organizer and leader of men is evidenced by his appointment to the Wisconsin Convention committee and his election to presidency of the Milwaukee District Osteopathic Association the second year of his residence there.

Dr. Logan married Ruth Rotzien of La Porte and Michigan City, Ind. Mrs. Logan has brothers and sisters in each town.

Dr. Logan's mother, Mrs. C. A. Logan, still resides in Capron.

NAZIS' BOYCOTT ON JEWRY TO BE BEGUN SATURDAY

A Nationwide Economic War On Jews Has Been Ordered

Berlin, March 31.—(AP)—Reports from the United States that Chancellor Hitler's Nazi party might be persuaded at the last minute to refrain from launching its drastic economic war on Jewry tomorrow seemed only to add fuel to the fire today.

A new proclamation defined the action as the beginning of a war on the entire Jewish race of the world. A party declaration said it will be fought "until victory is ours."

The Jews, their backs to the wall as their last appeals for mercy fell on deaf ears, have visualized their financial ruin and ultimate isolation from German cities and towns.

Such elaborate plans were being made for the beginning, at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, of the nationwide boycott on all businesses and professions conducted by Jews, and even Christian Jews, that there was no apparent loophole left for retreat.

But there was no tendency in that direction as propaganda was poured through every available channel to stir up national feeling against what the Nazis called the international conspiracy of Jewry.

Revive Old Cry
Chancellor Hitler's old battle cry that "Jews and the stock exchanges started the World War" was revived in today's proclamation, issued by the central boycott committee.

"Judah is stabbing Germany in the back with the same methods it employed to perpetrate the criminal World War. Again Judah is at work calumniating the German people as Huns and barbarians," said the proclamation.

Reports from the United States that the boycott would be called off were cited in the press. The newspaper Angreif, edited by Joseph Goebbels, the new Minister of Propaganda in the Hitler cabinet, seemed particularly irritated by these reports.

"In some sections of the American press, Germany's counter-measures are being answered by a renewed demand for a boycott of German goods," it said. "Tomorrow's boycott was planned to punish German Jews for the alleged spread of 'saturnian' stories' abroad."

Alleged Plot
The Nazis profess to see an international Jewish plot at work such as they have always blamed for the ills that befell Germany as a result of the World War.

Several hundred thousand brown-shirted Nazis are to begin the picketing of Jewish establishments throughout the country and already have been delegated to their posts. In many towns boycotts already were active, but the Nazi troops were ordered to halt them and in some places they were able to do so, though it was necessary to close the victimized stores.

The Jews themselves will be obliged to identify their stores for the boycott campaign by hanging out yellow-lettered black placards. Outdoor demonstrations and public display of posters today announced instructions and slogans for the boycotters.

Boycott committees also have staffs of persons to photograph anyone patronizing a boycotted store and these will be published in newspapers and shown on motion picture screens and to shame them.

Decree Hits Schools
Plans have also been announced to restrict Jewish attendance in schools of all grades and last night the Prussian Nazi party proposed that the Jewish enrollment be cut to one per cent.

An order was issued by the Nazi headquarters to refrain from interfering with the business of the Woolworth chain stores. Nazi economic theory is hostile to chain stores of all kinds, holding that such large organizations ruin small dealers.

One report laid the latest outbreak against the Woolworth stores to an erroneous belief that the original Woolworth was a Jew. (American investors have $27,000,000 invested in various chain stores and Jewish-owned department stores in Germany.)

U. S. STUDIES SITUATION
Washington, March 31.—(AP)—More than ever the personality and philosophy of Adolf Hitler held the attention of Americans today on the eve of a nation-wide boycott of Jews in Germany.

While the State Department sought to use its good offices in a quiet way to avert the impending economic war, those who have followed the strange career of the young Austrian who has become Germany's dictator found in his autobiography and the platform of his National Socialist party many indications of the strong anti-Jewish feeling which is finding its expression now.

Those who have read Hitler's life story which he wrote in a Bavarian prison in 1924 after the so-called "beer-hall putsch" in Munich, say his anti-Semitism is the outstanding feature of his own philosophy.

Prominent American Jews, headed by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, made a second visit to the State Department yesterday in connection with the troubles of Jews in Germany.

While officials declined to say whether any diplomatic action was being taken, Undersecretary Phillips made known that the whole Jewish question is being considered carefully.

There were many indications that this government would employ its influence quietly and in a neighborly fashion to bring some settlement.

Opposes Socialism
Hitler since early in his career has been bitterly opposed to Socialism. Many Socialist leaders with whom he came into contact were Jews, and therefore, some here say, the whole Socialist movement became a Hitler plot of international Jews to gain control.

Hitler and his followers, opposing in violent oratory the reparations payment provided by the Versailles treaty, have accused the Jews of placing this burden on the German people. To them the Jews are responsible for various others of their country's ills although just how is not explained.

In the Hitler program written by his Lieutenant Gottfried F. in 1920, it was set forth that no Jew is a member of the German people, that those who are not citizens may live in Germany only as a guest and that if it is not possible to feed the entire population of the state, non-citizens must be expelled from the Reich.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

A CRUEL BLOW

The Veterans Economy Bill was railroaded through Congress. It never could have passed except for the banking crisis. That instilled such fear in Congress that the Economy Bill was passed without consideration and many Congressmen voted for it without knowing the ruthlessness of its provisions.

Veterans and the dependents are innocent parties in all this trouble yet they are compelled to bear the brunt of the burden. The whole structure of laws which was their bill of rights has been demolished. Suffering is bound to follow. Homes will be broken up. Veterans and widows who are unable to find employment because of disabilities will have to look to local charities for assistance.

This is particularly true of Spanish War Veterans. They have reached the average age of 59 years. Industry refused to employ them even in prosperous times because of their age and disabilities.

Once a Spanish War Veteran loses his position he is economically ruined. It is impossible for him ever again to receive a job, because great employers of labor have barred him from work to earn the necessities of life for himself and family.

When Spanish War veterans entered the service no special act of Congress was necessary to induce them to enlist. The government's policy then in existence for dealing with veterans was a part of their enlistment contract as surely as if it had been in words written therein.

When they were mustered out of service no one ever suggested that special legislation should be enacted for their benefit. They willingly accepted the rates of pensions which had been established under the act passed in 1862 for Civil War veterans. When they became of an average age of 46 years Congress, in 1920, granted them a service pension in identical terms with the rights which had been heretofore granted to veterans of prior wars.

The pay of a Spanish American War soldier was only half that of the World War. They received no family allowance, no insurance, vocational training or other benefits. No one ever arose on the floor of Congress to suggest that these same benefits ever apply to Spanish War veterans which were in absolute accord with the contract of enlistment by the Government with the men who served this country during that war.

The Veterans Economy Bill is a repudiation of that solemn contract. The rights of those veterans have been taken away. Despair has gripped the souls of those veterans and their families. They know not which way to turn. The right to work is denied them because of their age and infirmities. Now the government ruthlessly takes away that pittance which helped them to secure the necessities of life. Their plight is pitiful indeed.

On March 15, while the Veterans Economy Bill was under consideration in the Senate, the following telegram was received from Mayor C. C. Smith of St. Cloud, Fla.: "Andrew J. Bess, Spanish War veteran, committed suicide here yesterday, Mar. 14, 1:45 P. M. by gun shot. Despondent over pending pension legislation."

Those responsible for railroaded that bill through Congress cannot escape the consequences of their act. The blood of that veteran's wounds is upon their hands and no future acts, be they ever so great, can wash that stain away.

No Spanish War Veterans will ever forget that cruel act. We can but repeat the words of the Master when He was being crucified by cruel people: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

What to do? Our state Soldiers' Home at Quincy is full to overflowing. In order to obtain admission to a National Home you must prove service disability. This is the first time in the history of the nation that war veterans were ever classed as paupers to be cared for in our almshouses and by local charities.

Instructions under date of Mar. 16 have been sent out by General Frank T. Hines, Administrator of Veterans Affairs.

"Pending further instructions, discontinue making determination or awards which would commit the administration to either new or additional benefits or allowances to any veterans under old or new legislation." And there the sun sets.

What a long dark night filled with hideous nightmare, not only for the veteran but for the local governments that must support him and his dependents.

New Yorkers Protest Persecution of German Jews

GOOD THOUGHTS

It is interesting to note the stress various New Testament writers place upon the importance of patience. Patience, as taught and practiced by the Master, was not supine endurance or affliction. It was quiet confidence in the ultimate triumph of good, and the persistent effort to allow nothing but good to enter consciousness. The Christian Science Monitor.

My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing. James 1.

There is no great achievement that is not the result of patient working and waiting. J. G. Holland.

Let nothing disturb thee. Nothing fright thee. All things are passing; God never changeth; Patient endurance Attaineth all things; Who God possesseseth In nothing is wanting; Alone God sufficeth Longfellow.

Patience is the ballast of the soul that will keep it from rolling and tumbling in the greatest storms. Bishop Hopkins.

Adopt the peace of nature: her secret is patience. Emerson.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When JANET HILL learns ROLF CARLYLE has been breaking engagements with her to meet BETTY KENDALL, a society girl, she tells him their marriage is off. Janet is 25, pretty and secretary to BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine.

She still loves Rolf and cannot forget him. JEFF GRANT, a young engineer, saves her purse and holds her one night and she and Jeff become friends. When she reads in a newspaper that Rolf has eloped with Betty Kendall she tells Jeff about her broken engagement and says she can never care for anyone else.

Hamilton tells her his sister, MRS. CURTIS, needs a social secretary and Janet secures the job. It is several days before she learns Mrs. Curtis is Betty Kendall's mother. Janet feels she should give up the job but has no place else to go. She decides to stay as long as Rolf and Betty are out of town.

Mrs. Curtis becomes ill and the doctor orders complete rest. She tells Janet her secret and completely fails the task of finding the apartment where the young couple came home before they are expected. Janet wants to leave but circumstances prevent this. Several days pass before she sees Rolf again. Then he says, "Aren't you glad to see me?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII ROLF's tone was casual, good-natured. "Been wondering when I was going to have a chance to talk to you," he said. "Where've you been hiding yourself?"

Janet said, "Oh! you surprised me!" She met his eyes and then evaded, bending to straighten the pile of magazines. He came a step nearer. "You haven't been trying to avoid me, have you?" he asked.

"Why, of course not!" So quickly defensive that the words belied themselves. "I've been busy, I guess. You know I work here."

Rolf laughed. "And just now, apparently, nothing is quite so important as those magazines. But they looked very nice the way they were, I thought. Come on. Sit down. Is there any reason in the world why we shouldn't talk to each other for a few minutes?"

"No-o," Janet hesitated. There were reasons but she couldn't tell him what they were. The little fires burning in her cheeks. That excited sensation when her eyes met his. Oh, yes, there were reasons why Janet should turn and flee from that room but instead she sat down in a rose brocade chair.

"That's better!" He stood looking down at her, smiling. "You're very decorative in that chair. Becoming background. And that's a good-looking suit you're wearing, too. On the whole, you're looking unusually attractive!"

He was the same Rolf. Exactly the same. When he paid compliments you could never be quite sure whether he really meant them or was joking. He pulled a chair forward, sat down, and drew from his pocket a silver cigarette case.

"Have one?" he asked, flipping open the cigarette case. Janet shook her head. She saw that the case was a new one and handsome. Suddenly it became a symbol. A symbol of all the changes that had taken place between them.

"Listen, Rolf," she said quickly. "I can't sit here talking to you. You know I can't. The only reason I'm in this house is because I'm paid to work here. There's one thing, though, I want to tell you. When I came here I didn't know Mrs. Curtis was your wife's mother."

SHE felt better now that she had got that out. It was easier to go on. "After I found out I was going away. But I needed the job and I didn't know where to find another. There aren't many jobs just now. I've been reading the want ad columns every day."

He stopped her. "But that's nonsense!" he exclaimed. "Listen, you aren't going to leave this job. Why, it's just the thing for you! Lots better than working down town in an office. Mrs. Curtis thinks a lot of you, too. I've heard her telling Betty she couldn't get along without you!"

His concern was genuine. The laughter was gone from the dark eyes now. "Promise me you won't do that, Janet," he urged. "You really think it's all right for me to stay?"

"Of course I do! I want you to."

"I don't know," Janet said doubtfully. "I don't know exactly what I should do."

"Then let me decide for you! You've made a real place for yourself here. I'll see that there's nothing to—er—embarrass you. You needn't worry about that. Only we can be friends, I hope. There isn't any reason why we shouldn't be, is there?"

There was a flash of that quick, winning smile. Janet said, "No, Rolf." She smiled, too, and the color deepened in her cheeks.

"Then let's shake on it." Their hands met. Janet said quickly, with a voice unsteady from emotion, "I've got to go now! I'm home late."

In another moment she was hurrying up the stairs. She did not stop until the door of her own room had closed behind her. Then she sank down on the edge of the bed. She was cold and every bit of strength seemed to have ebbed from her body. She clenched her hands together tightly, shivering though her heart was pounding.

"I won't see him again!" Janet resolved. "I mustn't let him know I feel the way I do!"

SHE didn't go down stairs again until she had heard Mrs. Curtis telling someone that Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle were dining out. Then Janet bathed and dressed and went down to the library.

Rolf proved to be as good as his word. Three days later he and Betty moved into their apartment and during those three days Janet saw him only once. He was with Betty then, on their way to some sort of engagement. He was wearing dinner clothes and Betty's wrap had slipped back to reveal her newest evening gown

YANKEES LOOK LIKE CINCH IN AMERICAN LOOP

None Of Other Teams Appears To Have Chance To Cop

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, Mar. 31 —(AP)— Six rival clubs have resorted to extraordinary measures and the seventh has changed hands completely, all in a common purpose to break up the latest monopoly of the New York Yankees, but it remains to be shown whether singly or collectively they can stop the world champions from capturing their eighth American League pennant this season. The betting is they won't.

Since 1921, the only clubs successful in dislodging Babe Ruth & Co. from the top have been the Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics. Once more it appears likely these two clubs, especially the Senators, will furnish the principal challenge to Yankee supremacy, despite the fact that all four of the western clubs, led by Cleveland and Detroit, are considerably strengthened and confident of making more than a perfunctory pennant gesture.

Around the circuit presided over by the scholarly William Harridge of Chicago, the hope has grown that the 1933 race will be better balanced and that the Yankees will not benefit from all the "breaks" credited to them last season. It seems much more of a hope than a conviction, for the Yankees are buttressed by more combined experience, power and pitching than any other entry.

Yank Pitchers Best
The New York pitching, on paper, looks no more effective than that of either the Athletics or the Senators, who traded off the great right arm of Fipps Marberry and the southpaw cunning of Lloyd Brown in exchange for two of the league's foremost lefties, Walter L. Steward and Earl Whitehill. The Yankee slugging may at times be no more pronounced than the fence-busting of the A's or the Cleveland Indians. The champions defense seems no more air-tight than that of the Detroit Tigers, St. Louis Browns or Senators.

But from the top to bottom of their batting order, the Yankees are a tough outfit to match, let alone conquer. It may be true they rely on a number of ancient performers, including Sewell, Combs and the eminent Babe Ruth, but it is equally true Manager Joe McCarthy has some of the finest young reserve strength in either league. At least a half dozen prospective Yankee "bench-warmer" would be regulars on a majority of other clubs.

Senators A Problem
Washington, with Goose Goslin back in his old slugging haunts and a four-star twirling staff of Crowder, Weaver, Whitehill and Stewart, figures to be very much in the pennant race. But the Senators' reserve strength is questionable and Joe Cronin's ability to handle the triple responsibilities of shortstop, slugger and manager must be proved. Bucky Harris, then a young second baseman, pulled one of baseball's "miracles" with Washington nine years ago, but this lightning seldom strikes twice in the same place.

Last year Washington was the

ADD TO WAR'S HORRORS
Day by day the fires of tennis warfare are being fed with more fuel. Ellsworth Vines started it by saying he would not compete in the National Open tennis championship, it being beneath the dignity of an amateur, or something like that.

Big Bill Tilden replied by openly declaring Vines was afraid to meet the professionals. Vines reiterated that he could name three amateurs who could beat Tilden in special competition.

Now Vinnie Richards, former indoor champion, announces he believes Tilden, thought 41, is capable of defeating the 21-year-old Vines at any time in a special match.

The whole thing would be one wonderful ballyhoo for a Tilden-Vines match that would pack them in—if Vines would play.

VINES' INSTABILITY
Not everybody is quite sure of Vines' ability. Tilden had to win four championships before he was popularly accepted as a dependable champion. While Vines has won the National singles twice, he also has been guilty of some terrible tennis.

Tilden used to loaf a lot when the going was unimportant, but he could turn on the power at will and blast his opponent right into the club house. Flashes of this same sort of genius have been shown by Vines—but there have been too only club able to hold the Yankees even on the season's series, but it is a fact that throughout the rest of the league the champions are likely to strike much more awe and terror into the opposition than the Senators.

The Athletics, Tigers and Indians, all featuring the development of youthful new stars, should be in the thick of the scramble for first division places. The A's have a brand new outfield, with no real replacement for Al Simmons' big punch in sight, but Connie Mack relies upon a come-back by his pitching staff, especially George Earnshaw, to keep the club in the race. No team featuring the exploits of stars like Grove, Fox and Cochrane can be treated very lightly.

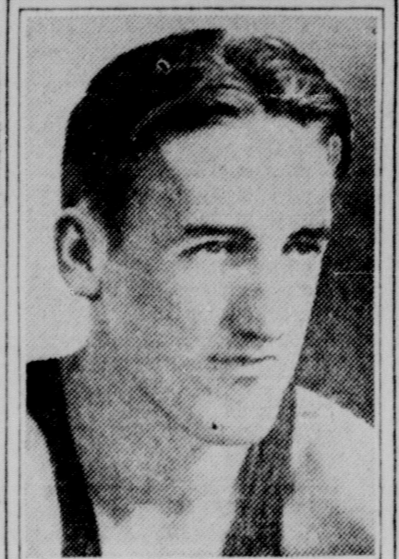

Indians Hopeful
Cleveland expects much more consistent pitching plus the development of such new talent as infielders Harley Boss and Bill Knickerbocker, to sustain the team's upward progress. Bucky Harris, too, looks for striking results with his Tigers, grown more formidable through the acquisition of Marberry, a pitching work-recruit, "Schoolboy" Rowe, a sensational hurler from Texas, infielder Marvin Owen and outfielder Ervin Fox.

Despite drastic changes, the St. Louis Browns, Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox still look very much like the rear guard, in that order. The Browns, swapping wholesale with Washington, have a fine defensive outfit but lack a decisive punch. The White Sox are much better equipped with Simmons, Dykes and Haas in the lineup, but it is doubtful if their increased power will offset pitching weakness. The Red Sox, making no outstanding changes since Tom Yawkey and Ed Collins took control, face a long, uphill battle for talent and subsequent recapture of their old prestige.

MILITIA AIR FORCE
Toronto —The Canadian Department of National Defense is organizing a new branch of its aviation department at Toronto, a militia air force and reserve. Squadron Leader Howsam of Ottawa has been transferred to this point to take charge of the new project. When complete, the first squadron will consist of 20 to 25 pilot officers and 100 to 175 member in the mechanical crew and ground force.

Beat Bears!

That's Slogan of Hard Luck Huskie Crew Captain

LAST year the Washington Huskies crew was figured to trounce the Golden Bears of California. But the California sweepsters won by 18 lengths. On April 9 the Huskies' crew, again stroked by Ed Argersinger, above, will strive against the Bears on the Oakland estuary. Although the Bears are favored this year, Ed hopes to upset the dope.

over the twisting course from Putney bridge to Mortlake brewery in the 85th running of the gruelling classic. The race is scheduled for 9:30 A. M. CST.

The Cantabs, riding high on the crest with nine consecutive victories, face the chance of creating a record in the ancient rivalry. Oxford twice has run its string of victories to the same number and twice failed in its efforts to reach the double figure; Cambridge, for the first time in its history, now has the opportunity.

On the basis of its showing in practices, the Cantab crew is credited with the power to pull it across the finish line first; the Oxonians, however, have been developing fast and observers anticipate a good race.

THIRSTY FANS IN FIVE TOWNS CAN GET BEER

Chicago, Brooklyn And New York To Sell Lager

New York, March 31—(AP)—Thirsty baseball fans will find beer on sale in at least five major baseball parks this season, reports to The Associated Press indicated today.

With the season opening April 12, five days after the new 3.2 beer becomes legal, the two Chicago clubs, White Sox and Cubs, and the three metropolitan New York teams, Giants, Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, have announced it will be available in their parks.

Five other clubs, however, will not permit beer to be sold, for a variety of reasons, while six have made no definite decision. Most of these latter are awaiting the necessary state legislation.

Beer will be sold at bars in the White Sox and Cub parks while the Yankees, Dodgers and Giants favor its sale at concession stands. The New York clubs, however, have made no definite plans pending enactment of state legislation at Albany.

Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington and Pittsburgh will not permit beer to be sold in their parks. In connection with this announcement as its affects Cleveland and Cincinnati, it was pointed out that the prospective new state law will provide for consumption of beer only at tables.

The two Boston and two Philadelphia clubs have not reached any decision as yet. Neither have the two St. Louis clubs although it was said the Browns would permit the sale of beer while the Cardinals would not. They use the same park.

Los Angeles, Mar. 31 —(AP)—If you ask Manager Charlie Grimm, he'll tell you one of the wisest Cub winter moves was the acquisition of Harvey Hendrick.

Hendrick can play first base or be outfitted with equal ability and may get a chance at both jobs during the coming campaign. He subbed for Grimm this spring and probably will be sent to Kiki Cuyler's outfield post until the latter recovers from his fractured ankle.

NOTRE DAME IN TRIBUTE TODAY TO GREAT 'ROCK'

South Bend, Ind., March 31—(AP)—Notre Dame today honored the memory of its immortal Viking of football, Knute Rockne, and looked back longingly on a glorious era of athletic achievement that may never return to the campus of the Golden Dome.

It was two years ago today that the great master of the "Fighting Irish" was killed in an airplane crash in Kansas and the entire university joined in tribute and prayer. Classes for the day were dismissed and the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame, planned to sing a requiem high mass.

Notre Dame's football army, always 10 or more full teams strong, has fought many a rousing battle under the leadership of Coach Hearty "Hunk" Anderson since "Rock" passed on, but its supremacy over the college gridiron has been broken. The fall started with Southern California's great victory in 1931 and continued through last season when the forces of the South Bend Raiders were leveled twice under attacks by the same

Heuser-Ebbetts Fight This Eve

New York, March 31—(AP)—Clouting light heavyweights, Harry Ebbetts of Freeport, N. Y., and Adolph Heuser of Germany, headline Madison Square Garden's boxing card tonight, last show in the big battle-pit before the annual invasion of the circus.

Heuser, recently beaten by Maxey Rosenberg in a title match, won a close decision over Ebbetts at the Garden on February 10. He rules an 8 to 5 favorite over the Freeport blonde for tonight's bout, set for 10 rounds.

Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavyweight, faces Hans Birkie of Oakland, Calif., and Bep Van Klaveren,

Do You Remember?

DO YOU REMEMBER...
One Year Ago Today — Buster Crabbe set a new record of 3:36 in the 300-yard medley swim during the national senior A. A. U. championships at New York.

Five Years Ago Today — Cambridge beat Oxford in their annual crew race on the Thames.

Ten Years Ago Today — Sam Langford knocked out Kid Savage in Mexico City and became the Mexican heavyweight champ.

D. Nelson Raynor, Editor of the Port Jervis (N. Y.) Union-Gazette says:

"Said Mrs. Jones to Mrs. Brown, 'I am going shopping 'round the town; there's lots of things that I must buy and so I read the ads and try to make my hubby's pay check go as far as possible, you know.'"

"That is what I do," said Mrs. Brown; "I read the paper and then put down a list of things I am in need of—there are so many that I read of—and so the merchant shows me why I'll save if from him, I will buy."

"The ads I read show me the way to get the most from hubby's pay—they help me find, when I start out, the things I want—they seem to shout for me to patronize their store, and is for value, get much more."

"So Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Brown know where to go in their home town; they find the merchant who is wise, for regularly doth he advertise. They lose no time, their work is play—THEY BUY THE ADVERTISING WAY!"
